Timeform View

GIVE ME A COPPER lacks the experience of some of his rivals here but, given his pedigree and previous impressions, he has the potential to be a top-notch chaser and, as such, is worth the chance to defy a mark of 145 despite returning from a lengthy absence. Divine Spear is a danger along with Newbury-scorer Aso.

Timeform 1-2-3:

1. GIVE ME A COPPER (3)
2. DIVINE SPEAR (6)
3. ASO (1)

Timeform says:

- Useful mare who took well to chasing last season and was going comfortably prior to being brought down at this course in November, so she’s an interesting one off a fair mark. (Forecast 11.00)
- Dual course winner who has been disappointing a couple of times this year and looks set for another struggle. (Forecast 17.00)
- Good strike rate for Francois Nicolle in France, winning 4 of his 7 starts, and has reached the frame in valuable events around here in the past and put up a bold display to land a 6-runner event at Newbury on his return a month ago. Solid claims again despite 8 lb rise. (Forecast 5.00)
- Looked a natural over fences, winning his first 3 outings before not seen to best effect at Kempton 10 months ago. May well resume progress. NON RUNNER. (Forecast 9.00)
- Has reached the frame in valuable events around here in the past and put up a bold display to land a 6-runner event at Newbury on his return a month ago. Solid claims again despite 8 lb rise. (Forecast 5.00)
- Has resumed progress over fences, jumping superbly when winning at Wetherby a couple of months ago, something which will stand him in good stead round here, so he’s well respected. (Forecast 8.00)
- Useful, largely consistent handicap hurdler who quickly reached a higher level over fences, and for all he lost his unbeaten record at Musselburgh 10 months ago, he returns with his potential intact. (Forecast 6.00)
